

Studying at Jena University Hospital...

has a long-standing tradition. As the only institution of its kind in Thuringia, Jena University Hospital can look back on a history of more than 200 years. The University's tradition as a medical school is yet older. Ever since the foundation of the University 450 years ago, the School of Medicine has been training and educating doctors-to-be.

Today, the University hospital with a staff of more than 4,500 is the biggest employer in the region. Its 26 clinical centers and 25 institutes provide care for 53,000 inpatients and for more than 270,000 outpatients per year, as well as teaching for 2,300 students of human medicine, dentistry, molecular medicine and medical photonics. At Jena University hospital, scientists work both in the field of fundamental biomedical research and in patient-related clinical research.
